The Signs are Good: 20 Years of Painting the Future

When: 30 November 2024 - 2 February 2024

Cost: FREE

Sometimes it seems like science fiction is coming true!

From the Atomic Age to UFOlogy, and to our own dreams and expectations of the Space Age, Adam Norton reflects on versions of the future and how they have changed over time. His paintings fix on aspects we might have missed.

Norton is part-anthropologist and part-futurologist as he remakes visions of the future into large colourful acrylic paintings. The works are influenced by the book covers, film posters and scientific billboards of the sci-fi and Space Age era he has lived through. The Signs Are Good is a canny retelling of our shared fantasy of the future.
